

ceramic & sculpture

Let me introduce two new makers to the gallery, both working in ceramics:

Jenny Southam uses terracotta clay, decorated with slip glazes in producing her amusing and charming sculptures. Below is her woman hugging two cats. I am showing mainly small but with one or two large pieces. Pop in and have a look.

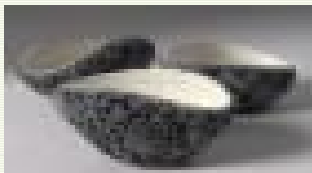

The image below shows her flying lovers and below that the woman on a horse.

Carys Davies

uses porcelain and volcanic glazes. Carys tries to bring together old and new, rough and smooth, something integrated. She contrasts shiny and rough glazes. The final bowl emerges organically.

SKYE

This painting is executed in oils and must be seen in the flesh. Mike's paintings are sometimes described as atmospheric and peaceful and sometimes as moody and reflective. To me this painting is tranquil, but it is for the viewer to decide. I currently have four of Mike's paintings so come and decide for yourself.

ALEX JOHANNSEN

More new work from Alex in the gallery now, as usual very amusing and well priced.

Bye for now, I hope to see you soon but in the meantime please log on to www.riversgallery.com for updates on the blog and a view of work in the gallery.

Judi

WOW!

That was my first expression when unpacking Syann Van Niftrik's latest collection. A number of you may have seen Syann's work last time she offered her work through Rivers Gallery. Some of you may have been lucky enough to take a piece home. NOW YOU HAVE ANOTHER CHANCE.

silver scoop ring

front-oxidised silver earrings. back -fine gold

The collection includes forged silver, silver and 18ct gold and single 18ct gold pieces. No picture can do justice to these pieces you must come in to see the collection.

Bjorg Design

New addition to the permanent collection available at Rivers Gallery is Bjorn Designs from Norway. Very organic almost raw and very beautiful jewellery.

Some pieces with rough diamonds, some pieces oxidised all very wearable and very unusual hand made work.
